The hair and hair follicle undergo a dynamic growth pattern consisting of three phases, known collectively as the hair cycle:

Anagen phase – growth stage - lasts between 3-8 years

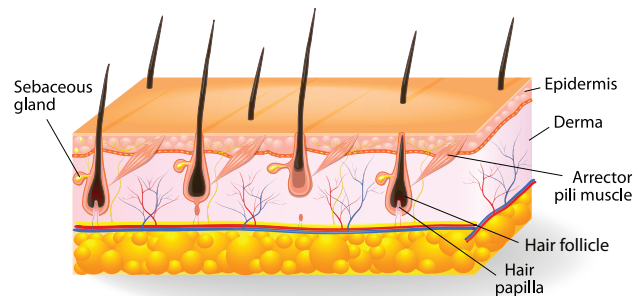

- Active growth phase of the hair follicle. The cells in the root of the hair divide rapidly and is added to the hair shaft
- The hair grows out of the hair follicle as a result and the growth is about 1 cm per month

Catagen phase – transition stage - lasts for 2-3 weeks

- In the transition stage the hair follicle comes close to the surface of the skin and the lower portion of the hair is transformed into a «club hair»
- This process cuts off the blood stream to the cells producing new hair

Telogen phase – resting stage - lasts for about 100 days for scalp hair

- During the telogen phase old hair will fall from the scalp and is replaced by a new anagen phase - growth stage

Anagen → Catagen → Telogen → Return to anagen

Some facts:

FLAVONOIDS

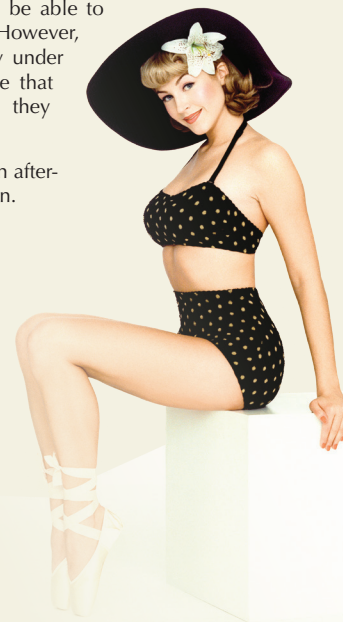

Flavonoids are strong UV radiation-absorbing compounds that accumulate mainly in the epidermal cells of plants.

The localisation of flavonoids in the epidermal layers of plants, and their known ultraviolet-absorbing properties, has led to a suggestion that they can serve as shields against potentially harmful radiation. There is a growing body of evidence for the role of flavonoids in photo-protection.

At the Dui Institute of Research, we notice that the colour pigments of the plants stay in the epidermal layer of the skin and remain there for up to 48 hours. For as long as the flavonoids can stay in the skin's epidermis, the cream, with the flavonoids, will be able to protect the skin from sunburn. However, we advise consumers to reapply under heavy sun tanning to make sure that they are getting the protection they require.

The cream can also be used as an after-sun product to cool the skin down.

Feel free to use Dui Day Cream or Firm Again face cream prior to applying for an even better protection.

Another active ingredient, glycosaminoglycans (GAGs), maintains and supports the integrity and structure of the skin. They moisturise and lubricate the spaces between epidermal cells, making the skin tone, firm and plump, thus slowing down the onset of wrinkles.

Firm Again Eye Gel

- lifting the eyelids,
- reducing swollen eye bags and eyelids,
- filling up wrinkles and lines, and
- hydrating the skin.

This refreshing eye gel increases circulation to the delicate skin around your eyes and reduces puffiness of the eyelids. Dark circles are also reduced. The gel plumps up lines and restores your skin's turgidity and firmness.

Frequent usage of this gel will aid in firming up the eyelids. Long-term use of this product also repairs cellular damage, thus slowing the ageing process.

The eye gel is a delicate combination of herbs, collagen- and elastin-supporting fluids to give the delicate skin around your eyes the needed lift and moisture. It is recommended for reducing eye bags and wrinkles.

The product supports collagen and elastin in the dermis of your skin so that damage and the aging of these proteins can be minimised. Eyelids will be firmed up, thus reducing their droopiness.

For younger-looking eyes, use the gel continuously over a few months, applying it both in the morning and at night.
